
Thank You Daddy

[To the tune of “Frère Jacques”]

To help re-energise everyone after lunch, David Simpson sprang a surprise on delegates and asked them to join him in singing a song to celebrate fathers and their positive contribution to family life.

Those present were allocated to one of four groups and the song was sung as a round to the tune of Frère Jacques ...

Hello daddy
Hello daddy
I love you
I love you
You make me so happy
You make me so happy
In my nappy
In my nappy

Thank you daddy
Thank you daddy
For being there
For being there
I am smiling at you
I am smiling at you
From my high chair
From my high chair

Thank you daddy
Thank you daddy
For the things you do
For the things you do
We'd be lost without you
We'd be lost without you
We love you
We love you

[Father and Baby logo taken from “More Secrets of Happy Children” by Steve and Shaaron Biddulph, published by Thorsons, ISBN 0-7225-3670-4. We are grateful to the authors for giving their permission to use this image]